

The Brinkley Center

Exploring Life After Death

October 3, 2024

Dear Friend,

After witnessing the destruction caused by Hurricane Helene, I am striving even harder to get the Brinkley Center property purchased and the center open. There are thousands of families across the southeastern United States from Florida all the way up to Tennessee whose entire lives have been upended.

Witnessing and feeling the grief, trauma, bereavement of whole communities of families underscores for me the urgent need get the Brinkley Center open and available for those who already had post-traumatic stress (PTS), or who will have it because of the hurricane. Through our program, we will be able to help individuals recover from the physical, emotional, and spiritual trauma they have been through as a result of Helene.

With four decades of focus on caring for veterans, we will make a priority for helping veterans whose lives have been disrupted and whose pre-existing PTS may have been exacerbated. We know what works, and we can provide those services through the Brinkley Center. With your help, we can make this a reality sooner rather than later.

Please consider a donation today to help make this a reality. Working together, the Brinkley Center property can be obtained and the Center opened to serve those who need it most.
